"Our Town" by J. B. WHITE

While the following admonitions to hunters embrace only simple rules which every intelligent person should intuitively observe, the fact remains that a failure to observe them is the direct cause of numerous deaths and injuries every year. Read them over:

1. Do not load your gun until you reach your huting grounds.
2. Always unload before climbing a fence and never lean a loaded gun against anything.
3. Never carry your gun with the safety catch off.
4. Never put your hand on the muzzle of your gun.
5. Never rest the muzzle on the ground.
6. Never jump a ditch with a loaded gun.
7. Do not load your gun in the house.
8. Do not carry a loaded gun in an automobile or on a horse.
9. Unload your gun before entering a boat and never load in a moving boat.
10. Never point a gun at anybody.
11. Never point your gun at any object unless you expect to shoot.
12. Never shoot at a question mark—it might be a man or woman

In spite of all the advances of medical science, the common cold is as baffling as ever. There is no certain specific medicine known for either preventing or curing colds.

About all that can be done is to try to avoid exposure which is likely to cause a cold, and if a cold is contracted in spite of precautions, go to bed and give nature a chance to throw it off.

Keeping in mind that colds may be communicated from one person to another, although this danger is perhaps exagerated, it is well to keep one's distance from anyone know to have a cold.

Physicians place particular stress on the necessity for maintaining as good general health as possible, so that bodily resistance may be kept high. Persons who are "run down" or who do not get sufficient sleep and rest are usually more susceptible to colds than those in better physical condition.

A leading health official concisely sums up the precautions to be taken against colds as follows: "Dress warmly and sensibly, get plenty of rest, avoid undue exposure, keep away from sneezers, take some outdoor exercise, sleep in a ventilated room, eat nourishing food."

Toothache is no respector of persons, and a few days ago President Roosevelt and Vice-President Garner were both suffering from this distressing ailment at the same time, the former losing one tooth and the latter two.

A recent bulletin of the Dental Institute of America warns against neglecting a toothache, which is nature's signal that even more serious trouble may lie ahead. The bulletin points out that a sound tooth seldom causes pain, but when a sharp dis-

Joe spends his vacations in Gause where he grew up and played ball, a real sand lot find. He is one of the sensations of the decade. Denied a full try out with Del Pratt's Waco team several years ago he was taken on at San Antonio and before the season ended was sold to the Giants for $20,000. He has been as big a sensation in the Majors.

Yoemen Lose In Last Game With Hearne Eagles

Cameron Yoemen hung up their uniforms Thanksgiving eve after the snow game on Wednesday night when the Hearne Eagles out-smarted them for a 13 to 0 victory.

The game, scheduled from the beginning of the season, was played despite the condition of the field resulting from the Monday snow storm. Arranged for a financial coup it turned out to the be a flop. The weather kept hundreds away. Cameron netted about $20 from the game, one of the best played this season.

A sensational development of the game was the play of Harry Hughes, big running back, who will be in uniform next year as a senior. It is no secret that Coach Wood is pinning high hopes on the tall youth who saved the game in Rosebud when he went over for a touchdown in the last few minutes of play.

Cameron gave Hearne a battle for the game, although up against a heavy and experienced team.

Miss Maxie Hyer Married To Horace Secrest In Church Wedding at Buckholts Wednesday

On Wednesday morning at ten o'clock in the Hope Lutheran Church in Buckholts, Miss Maxine Hyer became the bride of Horace G. Secrest, Jr., in a wedding of interest to many in Milam county and Texas.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hyer of Buckholts and was born and reared in that city. Mr. Secrest is a Reagan and Austin business man.

The ritual of the church was read by Rev. Paul Czerkus, pastor. An alter of beauty was colorful in yellow chrysanthemums as a suggestion of Texas University colors where the bride and groom are students. Palms completed the floral scheme. Tapers in white candelabra of gold were burning to accentuate the solemn beauty of the ceremony.

Mrs. Horace G. Secrest, Sr., of Rankin, mother of the groom, gave the wedding music. Mrs. John Meyer of Buckholts sang "I Love You Truly." A frock of black with accessories of gold was worn by Mrs. Secrest. Talisman buds were her corsage. A dress of Bergundy with Roosevelt buds for corsage were worn by Mrs. Meyer.

The bride went to the altar on the arm of her father, E. B. Hyer. Her wedding gown was of royal blue velvet, made in street length with short puff sleeves and sequin trim on the wide belt. Trimming at the neck line was a white scarf. A velvet hat and accessories matched the superb wedding gown. White roses, lilies of the valley in colonial design made up the bridal boquet.

Miss Louise Webb of Houston, maid of honor, wore a Bergundy shade of velvet and carried an arm boquet of Roosevelt roses. Mrs. Walter Merriman of Throckmorton was matron of honor and wore an exquisite gown of rust velvet with an arm boquet of talisman rose buds.

Bettie Jean Secrest of Rakin, junior brides maid, wore royal blue velvett and carried an arm boquet of golden glow buds.

A charming scheme of floral decorations for the church and the home was arranged by Glass the Florist in Cameron. The bride wore an orchid, gift of Glass, the florist.

The bridge wore a Deubeneaux suit with accessories to match as she left the home for the honey moon trip.

Gilford Jones of Austin was best man; Fred Hamilton of Austin and Steve Burtis of Buckholts were ushers.

Following the nuptial ceremonies at the church a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hyer. Baskets of yellow chrysanthemums with wedding bells in baskets were placed about the home for the floral decorations.

Luncheon was served at high noon. On the dining table was the bride's cake on a reflector. About the cake was a garland of lillies of the valley. A turkey menu was served buffet style to members of the wedding party and relatives.

From the Hyer home Mr. and Mrs. Secrest went to Dallas and from that city took a plane for Austin where they arrived on Friday and will make their home.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Secrest are students in the University of Texas. The bride was born and reared in Buckholts. She attended high school in Cameron and was graduated from high school three years ago. She was a popular student here and active in campus society. She is a Junior in the University and a member of the Phi Mu social sorority. Matinee For Toy Chest At Cameron Theatre Soon

J. R. Bush, president of the Lions Club, said Tuesday that the club plans a toy chest and will be happy to have the tender of one of the Swift Theatres here for a matinee.

Mr Swift has been most helpful in these good will gestures. He was in Dallas Tuesday and it was expected he would announce the matinee date upon his return. A broken toy that may be mended will be the price of admission to the show.

Mrs. J. R. Bush Gives Novel Dinner for Her Bridge Club

Mrs. J. R. Bush, hostess to her Monday night bridge club, provided something novel both in entertainment as well as refreshment hours when she invited the members of her Monday bridge to supper at seven.

She served a menu of Mexican dishes, using table covers and napery of colorful design to harmonize the appointments. Guests were served the supper buffet style, then followed an evening of bridge.

Mrs. Bush used chrysanthemums for floral decorations and novelties to carry out the scheme. In the living room small tables were placed Cactus plants in pots given as favors, marked the place for ladies.

Mrs. B. F. Reichert won high award for ladies, an apron of colorful design. Marvin Franklin held high score for men and was given a brush in wooden holder., To Mrs. Harvey Yoe went the consolation prize, a basket.

Present for the supper and bridge were: Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Yoe, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Dusek, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tag, Mr and Mrs. B. F. Reichert, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Franklin.

turbance occurs it means the exposure of a nerve, usually due to decay It adds:

"The live, soft tissue of a tooth is known as pulp. It consists of the nerve and blood vessels as well as the soft tissues lining the inside of the tooth. When there is exposure or decay, the pulp becomes infected and the process of decomposition sets in rapidly."

If neglected, the decay continues into the nerve which dies from infection and the germs reach the nerve canal which goes all the way to the end of the root, causnig more pain and inflamation. Dead teeth usually become discolored and there is danger of abscess formation at the root.

Proper cleaning at least twice a day and regular dental supervision alone can solve the problem of tooth decay. The filling of cavities before the nerve is affected will keep the teeth alive and healthy.

Through the protection afforded by game laws, a gratifying increase in American wild life has been made in recent years. In fact, in the case of some species of large animals the number is becoming greater than desired.

A notable example of this is seen in the offer of the government to sell nearly 300 buffaloes, or bison, from some of its large Western preserves. The price named is $60 for a live buffalo, crated and delivered at the nearest railroad point. Or one will be furnished at the preserve, butchered and including the hide, for $50.

Yet fifty years ago it was feared that the American buffalo would become extinct because of the tremendous slaughter of the animals during the early settlement of the West. Shortly after the Civil War General Sheridan estimated the number of buffalo on the Western plains to be eleven million, while 25 years later the number had been reduced to about eleven hundred.

Before it was too late, however, the government took steps to protect this most typically American big game animal, and the danger of its extinction soon passed. Now the lack of available grazing land in government preserves has made it necessary to reduce the buffal heards again.

Reception for Bride Held Tuesday Evening In R. L. Batte Home

One of the major social courtesies of the week was the reception for Mrs. George Mayo Newton, held Tuesday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Batte.

Mrs. Newton, the former Miss Abbie Reese Harvey, grand daughter of Mrs. Jessie Winn and R. L. Batte, became the bride of George Mayo Newton two weeks ago in a ceremony in Austin. The shower was arranged in her honor and was both elaborate and colorful.

The old Batte home north of the city was warm and cheerful for the occasion. Decoration details were exquisite in taste and extent. An old fashioned grate was unique with its wood fire. Mrs. Batte used chrysanthemums, carnations, roses and snap dragons to make more lovely the reception rooms. In the dining room pink carnations formed a central floral piece in pink with snap dragons. Near the center piece lighted with burning pink tapers stood a miniature bridal party.

Colored lights made contrast with the white earth now beautiful from the snow fall. Guests were met by three boys, Claude and Bobby Batte and Jackie Bowles of Dallas. In the receiving line were Mrs. Batte, the bride, Mrs. W. R. Newton, mother of the groom and Mrs. Stanley Bowles and daughter, Miss Virginia of Dallas.

Of especial interest for the occasion was the attendance of Mrs. Bowles of Dallas. She was the former Miss Nell Morton of Cameron and a close friend of the bride's mother, the late Mrs. M. L. Harvey who before her marriage was Miss Jessie Lee Batte, daughter of R. L. Batte and Mrs. Jessie Winn of Cameron. The bride and Miss Virginia Bowles are friends also. Mrs. Bowles and the late Mrs. Harvey were school mates at Ward Belmont.

In the dining room the hostess served congealed salad in heart shaped sandwiches of pink. Wafers, macaroons and hot tea completed the refreshment course. Assisting the hostess were Misses Leila Lee Batte, Mary Newton, sister of the groom; Mrs. Fred Reno, Mrs. Dick Batte, and Mrs. H. N. Tate. At the bride's book where guests registered was Miss Josephine Newton, also sister of the groom.

An entertainment feature was arranged by Mrs. Edwin Day, also a recent bride. The entertainment was a series of contests and out of the contest came recipes for a book presented to the bride.

A happy ending for so lovely an entertainment saw the bride in happy mood opening her gifts. They were secreted in a large box of heart shape design and in pink. The gifts included china, glass ware and rich linens, also foods in preserve containers. In a smart black wool dress with rhinestones at the neck, Mrs. Newton, in her own charming way expressed her thanks to friends and to neighbors for this courtesy and well wishes.

Mrs. Newton was the former Miss Abbie Reese Harvey and close friends of the bride were included in the guest list.

Mrs. Reno arranged a charming reception giving each guest a flower bracelet of sweetheart rose buds and queen's wreath. White linens covered the tables and in the centers were small silver baskets of sweetheart rose buds. A doll bride marked the bride's place at the table.

Mrs. Reno served turkey and a kindred menu. Desert was ice cream served in cake baskets of pink. The hostess gave Mrs. Newton silver to match a design she has chosen for her home.

An enjoyable feature of the program was the contest arising over recipes and Miss Dorothy Kidd was the winner. She received a recipe book covered with leather. Miss Kidd took the reipes given by guests and presented them with the book to Mrs. Newton.

TWO NEW FORD V-8 CARS FOR 1938

THE STANDARD
60 OR 85 HORSEPOWER

STANDARD FORD V-8 . . . 112" wheelbase; 85 or 60 horsepower engine; Improved Easy-Action Safety Brakes; Center-Poise Ride; All-steel body; Broadcloth or Mohair upholstery, Mohair extra in "60"; Mahogany-finished trim; One tail light, sun visor; Twin horns; 3 body types; 3 colors.

FORD offers two new cars for 1938—the Standard Ford V-8 and the De Luxe Ford V-8. They are different in appearance—but built to the same high standard of mechanical excellence—on the same chassis.

Because people liked our 1937 car so well, they bought more than of any other make. They liked its looks, its smooth performance, and the way it handled. We have improved on that car in the newly styled Standard Ford V-8.

But some folks wanted still more size and style, with the same Ford advantages. For them, we designed a new De Luxe line.

The De Luxe Ford V-8 Sedans are longer with more room, larger luggage space, and finer appointments all around. De Luxe cars are equipped with the 85-horsepower engine only.

The Standard is even lower priced than the De Luxe. It has graceful new lines and well-tailored interiors—with a choice of engine sizes—85 or 60 horsepower.

Before Ford made V-type 8-cylinder engines available to every one, they were used only in expensive cars. Since then, four million Ford owners have learned the genuine enjoyment of driving an eight-cylinder car with all-around economy. The thrifty "60" engine, especially, makes possible in Standard models a very low first cost and equally low operating cost. With two distinct designs, two engine sizes and two price ranges, you'll find a 1938 Ford car to fit your needs exactly.

PRICES FOR CARS DELIVERED IN DETROIT—TAXES EXTRA

Standard Ford V-8 (60 hp.)—Coupe, $599; Tudor, $644; Fordor, $689. Standard Ford V-8 (85 hp.)—Coupe, $629; Tudor, $669; Fordor, $714. De Luxe Ford V-8 (85 hp. only)—Coupe, $689; Tudor, $729; Fordor, $774; Convertible Coupe, $774; Club Coupe, $749; Convertible Club Coupe, $804; Phaeton, $824; Convertible Sedan, $904.

Standard and De Luxe cars equipped with bumpers, bumper guards, spare wheel, tire, tube, tire lock and band, cigar lighter, twin horns, and headlight beam indicator on instrument panel, at no extra charge.

In addition, De Luxe cars are equipped with extra tail light, windshield wiper, sun visor; also de luxe steering wheel, glove compartment lock, clock, and chrome wheel bands, at no extra charge.

Joe Brown Again! "Riding On Air" Here Saturday

Bringing Richard Macaulay's famous character of Elmer Lane to the screen, Joe E. Brown, cavern-mouthed comedian, will soon be seen in a new photo-play, "Riding on Air," based on the popular stories which have appeared in the Saturday Evening Post for several years.

The picture is the Saturday program at the Milam.

As the small town newspaper editor who becomes involved in a sensational, big city scoop, Brown has a role tailor-made to his inimitable style of comedy in this, his second David L. Loew production. While serving as a local correspondent for a big metropolitan daily, a gangster killing occurs virtually under his nose. He helps a rival reporter scoop him by personally flying the story and pictures of the crime to the competitive paper, believing he is taking a sick dog to a Chicago veterinary.

Ridiculed by the big city newspapers, as well as by the natives of his home town, Brown decides to reinstate himself by running down a smuggling ring running perfume across the Canadian border by air. Before he can carry out his plans, he is pursued by angry citizens who believe he has embezzled their money in a radio beam company organized by Guy Kibbee, a Chicago confidence man with a record who has used him as a pawn.

With the use of the projected radio beam, an invention of his buddy, Brown takes out after the smuggler's plane, engages in a thrilling air battle, walks out on the wings of his own plane and shoots down the enemy ship with a shotgun. He returns home a hero.

Appearing as leading-lady, Florence Rice is cast in an important role as Joe E. Brown's sweetheart. Vinton Haworth plays the part of his reportorial and romantic rival, Harlan Briggs is cast as the stern father of the girl, and Anthony Nace is the young inventive genius. The picture was directed by Edward Sedgwick, for KRO Radio release.

Knights of Columbus Holds Interesting Meeting Here

Due to the absence of Grand Knight John C. Andres, the last meeting of the Knights of Columbus was presided over by Deputy Grand Knight Emil Boedeker, who in turn did a very good job.

Newly initiated members were asked to tell their experiences and they responded nobly. Cameron council is very proud of its new members.

The dance intended for last Tuesday was postponed to a later date due to inclement weather. This dance was to have been for members and their invited friends.

The council had the pleasure of having as its guests the Rev. Geiser of Plantersville and Rev. Eddie Geiser of Burlington. They were both called upon for talks and both responded.

Adyar Atchiovritch of Belgrade, Yugoslavia, got four and a half years in prison because of his mistaken idea that a wife is a chattel. He was convicted of trading his spouse to a soldier for a donkey.

A group of young women in Oklahoma City have organized the S. F. P. I. M. M. P. A. B., which being interpreted means the Society for the Prevention of Married Men Posing as Bachelors, and its object is to conpel all married men to wear wedding rings. The girls say they have no time to waste on benedicts.

Paul Mini Rockets To Stardom Again In "Life of Emile Zola" Here Dec. 9

One of the greatest claims to fame possessed by the Republic of France is that it was the birthplace and the homeland of Emile Zola, the immortal novelist. His name is to France what Shakespeare's is to England.

And now, for the first time, Zola reaches the films. With Paul Muni in the name part, "The Life of Emile Zola," an immense production by Warner Bros. comes to the screen of the Cameron December 9 and 10.

There is a strong temptation, of course, to compare this epic drama with the one that gained for Muni, last year, the Motion Picture Academy's award for the best performance by an actor in 1936—"The Story of Louis Pasteur."

There's the same star, the same director (William Dieterle,) and the same lavish type of picture-making. Possibly this may mean another gold statuette for Paul from the Academy. At all events, "The Life of Emile Zola" is a truly great picture, and many observers believe it to be even greater than "Pasteur."

It runs through the entire career of Zola First he is seen as a struggling young writer, sometimes obliged to pawn even his shirt for bread. Then he meets the girl of the streets, "Nana" (played by Erin O'Brien-Moore) whose life he depicts in a novel that earns him enormous sums and lifts him to international fame.

But most of the story has to do with Zola's courageous defense of Captain Alfred Dreyfus, the army officer who was framed on a false charge of selling secrets to Germany, and who was sent to the horros of Devil's Island.

The picture shows Zola writing his bitter attack on the army clique, called "I Accuse," which was printed in the newspapers of Georges Clemenceau, who later was to become the "Tiger of France" in the World War. And this resulted finally—as those who know their history are aware—in the restoration of Dreyfus to his old past. No more gallant deed than Zola's can be imagined. At the time he takes up his mighty pen in defense of Dreyfus, he is well into middle age, reaping his rewards from a life of struggle, work and hard-won battles. All of France honors him Yet he faces the new and most difficult battle of his life without flinching. After his famous attack is published, he is tried for libel in one of the most unjust trials of history. Condemned to prison, he is forced to flee to England from which place he continues his attacks on the army.

Paul Muni's portrayal of Emile Zola is a magnificent piece of work—better if possible than his characterization of Louis Pasteur the scientist

Captain Dreyfus is splendidly played by Joseph Schildkraut, who was, incidentally, a boyhood chum of Muni's in their native Vienna.

Others of note in the cast are Gale Sondergaard as Mme. Dreyfus, Gloria Holden as Mme. Zola, Henry O'Neill, Louis Calhern, Vladimar Sokoloff, Morris Carnovzky and Donald Crisp

"The Life of Emile Zola" is a thrilling, absorbing story, beautifully directed by Dieterle and produced with extreme care and lavishness by the Warners. It's as exciting as any melodrama of 1937 and a great picture of all time.

Thomas Jefferson White returned to Houston on Sunday after a visit in Cameron for the Thanksgiving holidays. He is a student in Rice.

Gas Mains Here Inspected Under New State Law

Cameron's gas distribution system was inspected here last week and a report made to the Railroad Commission.

Under a Texas statute recently enacted, a bill introduced by Dr. W. R. Newton in the state senate, malodorant is now placed in all gass mains in Texas. The law was enacted following the New London School blast. Escaping gas in homes and business can now be more easily detected.

The law has been in operation since July. Manager Joe Bush named a committee of local citizens to make the inspection. They were: E. D. Parnell, Harvey Yoe, E. O. Schiler and Roy Griffith, Aldermen; and F. E Woodruff of the Texas Power & Light Company.

DECEMBER 2 and 3

The Spirit of the Month

December with its thoughts of Christmas stirs the family and the world for that matter.

How much better off would you have been if you had taken our suggestion a year ago with more serious application? We dare say this too would be a very Happy Christmas for you.

Its a good time to think seriously, although the happiness of the occasion makes us forget responsibilities and cares.

Try to remember that in the months to come . . . before another Christmas, its a lot better to bank some money. You owe it to your family.

FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION — $5,000 MAXIMUM INSURANCE FOR EACH DEPOSITOR — MEMBER

A second week of the Session has gone by and the Agricultural Committees of both Houses have brought in farm bills but I don't believe that anyone fully understands either bill. The Senate Bill is 97 pages long and the House Bill is 86. I have tried to read and understand them. I have read them both but I make no claim that I understand either bill. The Senate Bill is so confusing and involved that I have given up so far as it is concerned. I am still working with the House Bill. This morning I met with a group of other members from cotton states and with a member of the legal staff of the Department of Agriculture. We spent two hours trying to agree among ourselves as to what the Bill meant. It undoubtedly has some good features but it is so involved that one member of the Committee, that brought it out, said that it should carry an appropriation to buy a black board, five pounds of chalk, a calendar, a logrithm table and a slide rule for every farmer, and I am inclined to agree with him.

We should have a simple bill—one that everyone can understand. Last Monday I introduced a bill of only eleven pages which I believe covers the cotton problem and which I believe anyone can understand. My bill would guarantee the farmer twenty cents per pound on his share of the domestically consumed part of the crop—about one half of an average year's production. It would limit the protected market to ten bales per family unit engaged in production and would thereby require the large operator to either place tenants on his farms or take the world price for his cotton. It would wipe out the present cotton bases and make the farmer's future base depend on the size and productivity of his whole farm and not simply on the amount of cotton he has produced in the past.

I hope that there may be some turn of events so that we may compromise on this or some similar plan. There are many groups in Congress who don't want any farm bill. There are other groups, as the dairy and poultry interests who want to require us to leave idle any acres taken out of cotton. They fear these acres will be used to compete with them. From their standpoint, they can hardly be blamed but I feel that it would be nothing short of tragedy to require our people to leave land unused. Idle acres means idle people. More idle people means increased relief and lower wages. Neither the government nor labor can afford this. The farmer must have a greater income if industry is to have a market. Industry must have a market if labor is to get employment. Labor must get employment if the government is to reduce the relief burden. Everyone's welfare is tied up with the problem of increasing farmer income.

However, all legislation is a result of compromise and I still hope to get a fair compromise but I want our people to realize that it is very unlikely that we will be able to get any bill that will not be very disappointing. While, as I have said before, it will be hard to write a farm bill that I will not vote for, if it has any good in it, I can not but feel that any farm bill should, as a minimum, do three things: First, change the base on which benefits are paid so that the small farmer who diversified in the past will not be penalized; second, make some provision for larger returns to the landlord who uses farm families than the operator who displaces his tenants and third, if at all possible, guarantee a fair price for a fair share of the total crop. (Personally, I believe this share should be the one half of the crop normally consumed in the United States, but if some method of arriving at the share on which the guarantee should be paid can be devised, I expect to support it.

There has been lots of talk in the House on every subject under the sun but no action of any importance, except that on farm legislation and I have been so intensely interested in this problem that I have had time for little else. I was, however, one of six who organized a Peace Forum for Members of Congress—a forum where we could discuss the maintenance of Peace. We held our first meeting last Tuesday night and heard an address by Secretary of State Hull, who after his speech answered questions in a most interesting and instructive manner. We are now inviting the Chinese and the Japanese Ambassadors (on separate nights) and we hope to provide interesting and instructive programs with the aim of keeping this country out of war.

FARM CLUB NEWS

Edith McCall, with the help of the other girls in the Yarrellton 4H Club has been able to construct her a good brooder house from scrap lumber that had accumulated at her home. Edith is the Poultry Demonstrator for her club, and the brooder that she made is of a type that anyone can have. It is 2 feet wide, 3 feet deep, and 18 inches high. This size is large enough to care for 50 baby chicks up to 6 weeks.

Edith made the top straight and removable. She plans to tack flannel strips two inches wide and 12 to 14 inches long all over the inside of the top (spaced 2 inches apart) to hang down for the chickens to hover under. She will use turkey feathers instead of the cloth if she can get them.

The house is boxed completely on all sides except the front, which is left open eight inches up from the ground. She will use a wire enclosure in the front of the house that will cover completely up to this opening. This wire enclosure provides a range for the chicks and should be one foot high and at least 3 feet wide and 6 feet long or 2 feet wide and 9 feet long.

The heat for the brooder will be supplied by an ordinary lamp used without a chimney, but used in such a way that it is absolutely fire proof. (Any coal oil lamp with any size wick would do if the chimney is removed and a small flame allowed that would keep the inside temperature 95 degrees F the first 3 days, 92 degrees F. the second three days, and 5 degrees F less each week thereafter until the temperature is around 70 degrees F.)

Edith's fire proof method of providing heat from a lamp is a follows: On the south side of one of the yard buildings, she will dig a hole 2 feet deep, 2 feet wide, and 4 feet long. Over this hole she will place enough tin to cover it completely except for one foot of its length; she will leave this foot opening at the back of the hole next to the building. On top of the tin, she will put 1 to 1 1-2 inches of sand and then over this she will put the 2'x3' brooder house with the open front turned to the south. (The sand serves as the floor of the house and will be kept clean by changing it twice a week.) The lamp will be placed inside the hole under the brooder through the one foot opening next to the building. The lamp is thus put in a fire proof place, being surrounded by a floor and walls of dirt, and a top of tin. The one foot opening used to place the lamp under the brooder will be left uncovered so that the lamp will have enough air for burning. Since this opening is on the protected side of the building, it is not likely that enough wind and rain will come through it to put the lamp out.

If this brooder were built twice as large it would care for twice as many chicks. Only one lamp would still be needed since the chicks give out a good deal of heat themselves.

She was the wife of the late D. N. Ethridge, sister of John H. and Andrew Bickett, now deceased.

Mrs. Ethridge had never moved her membership from the Marlow Presbyterian church, but attened the First Presbyterian church in Beaumont until her illness.

Funeral services were held in Beaumont Sunday morning at 8 o'clock, Rev. Wesley Prince and Rev. Dr. David Roberts, officiating. Rev. Prince accompanying the remains to Cameron was assisted by Rev. O. C Acrey, Presbyterian minister of Cameron, his chosen subject being "I shall be satisfied when I awake in Thy Likeness."

Mrs. Winnie Witliff sang "The Lord Is My Sheppard," her favorite Psalm. The choir sang "Abide With Me," and "Asleep In Jesus."

Pall bearers were her grand sons: James Mortle, John Lamkin, J. D. Ethridge, John F. Pressley, Carter Magendie and Manferd Angell. The Proctor-Riley Funeral Home in Beaumont had charge of arrangements, assisted by Leland Green of Cameron.

A hospital error caused relatives from three states to gather in Brooklyn for the funeral of Mrs. Maria Maggio, 94. When the casket was opened after its arrival at the Maggio home it was found that the body was that of a much younger woman, Mrs. Maria Maglio. The hospital authorities made profuse apologies for the mistake.

"The Big City" At Cameron December 2 and 3

Only "tough guys" wanted!

This declaration, or an approximation of it, was the sign hung outside the M-G-M casting office when extras were sought for the spectacular street brawl scene of "Big City," the dramatic story of New York which co-stars Luise Rainer and Spencer Tracy for the first time, and which will be shown starting Thursday on the Cameron screen.

There was a good reason for demanding "tough guys" for this particular sequence for the extras had to engage in a hand-to-hand, free-for-all fight with none other than Jack Dempsey, James Jeffries, Jimmy McLarnin, Maxie Rosenbloom, Jim Thorpe, Frank Wykoff, Jackie Fields, Man Mountain Dean, Bull Montana and a number of other famous champions of the ring and sports world.

The climax of the Norman Krasna story takes place in a reproduction of Jack Dempsey's Restaurant in New Work, and it is at a dinner in this famous rendezvous of noted sports figures that the above list of champions first make their appearance.

Following the dinner, the plot takes the roomful of fighters to the New York waterfront where they put to rout a small army of tough taxicab drivers who are attempting to demolish the cabs of a rival company of which Spencer Tracy is a member.

There have been realistic fights portrayed on the screen before, but it is said that none have been more realistically or spectacularly filmed than this one in which the participants represent every phase of the sports world. In fact, so anxious were the participants to show off their prowess in the melee that when the scene was completed it is reported that there was a hurry call for studio doctors and nurses to handle the black eyes and cut lips which inadvertently resulted.

"Big City" in which Luise Rainer portraps an immigrant girl married to Spencer Tracy, a taxicab driver, was directed by Frank Borzage, creator of such memorable photo-plays as "Seventh Heaven," "Humoresque" and the recent "History Is Made at Night."

There's Difference Between Deer and Dear Fritz Weid Avers Over New Son

The arresting influence of a new born son kept Fritz Weid of Burlington away from a planned hunt in the wilds of South Texas last week.

Smiling over his great fortune this late in life, the big Burlington ginner was being slapped on the back by friends and neighbors. Mrs. Weid and the baby are doing fine and are enjoying their great popularity at this time. The boy weighed 10 pounds, a husky Weid to grow up in the fine Burlington community and maybe help dad run the old gin some day, but not until he has completed his education and maybe qualified for a great tackle for the Aggies.

Mr. Weid has canceled all hunting engagements. He is quite a sportsman. A close friend said Tuesday: "Fritz is a deer hunter and fisherman. He found a real Dear in Cameron Hospital last week and has lost all interest in shooting wild game."

The boy who no doubt will be named Fritz, Jr., was born on Wednesday, November 24th. The mother was the former Miss Heugatter and reared in Milam county. The subdued father of Little Fritz was born in Austin County.

This is one of a series of such talks, said J. R. Bush, president of the Lions Club. Dr. C. G. Brindley will talk of health and F. E. Woodruff will talk on citizenship.
